The Woman In Black* Scares Audiences At the Dragon Theatre This Halloween Season

In this brilliant adaptation of Susan Hill's horror novella, a traumatized man recruits a young actor to help him exorcise the ghost of the Woman in Black. As the two men perform the story, the suspense builds until the ghost's terrible secret is finally revealed. Acclaimed by audiences and critics alike, The Woman in Black is the second longest-running play in the history of London's West End.

WHO: Adapted by Stephen Mallatratt, based on the novel by Susan Hill, directed by Executive Artistic Director Meredith Hagedorn

Meredith Hagedorn (Director and Executive Artistic Director & Founder of Dragon Theatre) has been a professional actor and director in regional theatres across the country for almost thirty years. Meredith is also the Executive Artistic Director and Founder of Dragon Productions and is thrilled to be celebrating Dragon's 14th season and the 2nd in Dragon's new home in Redwood City. Audiences last saw Meredith on the Dragon stage at the beginning of this season as Allison in Rx. She last directed the quirky show Rich & Famous on the Dragon stage last season. The Woman in Black is a bucket-list show for her and she feels blessed to be a part of this tremendous team telling this spooky theatrical story.
